

Photo ©Al Schneider, www.swcoloradowildflowers.com

center
—for—native
plants

Showy Milkweed

Asclepias speciosa
Dogbane Family

JUN-AUG

H 24" -60"

- Wonderful plant for butterfly gardens, borders, and meadows
- Extremely important for Monarch Butterflies as it provides a nectar source and is a host plant for larvae
- Has historically been used for fiber, food, and medicine
- Due to its vigorous vegetative growth, it may outcompete or displace other vegetation if not properly managed