

Photo ©Al Schneider, www.swcoloradowildflowers.com

Showy Milkweed

Asclepias speciosa
Dogbane Family

- Extremely important for Monarch Butterflies as it provides a nectar source and is a host plant for larvae
- Has historically been used for fiber, food, and medicine
- Due to its vigorous vegetative growth, it may outcompete or displace other vegetation if not properly managed